

The Brookings Institution is a nonprofit public policy organization based in Washington, DC. Our mission is to conduct high-quality, independent research and, based on that research, to provide innovative, practical recommendations that advance three broad goals:

Strengthen American democracy;

Foster the economic and social welfare, security and opportunity of all Americans; and Secure a more open, safe, prosperous and cooperative international system.

To help turn ideas for healthcare reform into action, the Brookings Institution established the Engelberg Center for Healthcare Reform.

Under the leadership of Mark McClellan and S. Lawrence Kocot, Fellows & Managing Directors: Kavita Patel, Greg Daniel, and Barbara Gage; the Engelberg Center for Healthcare Reform have continued to drive innovative reform for healthcare through advocating practices identified by physicians who improve patient care and outcomes while lowering costs. This ongoing initiative is supported by careful economic and policy analysis driven by quality.

The Engelberg Center for Health Care Reform at Brookings seeks a Fellow and Managing Director. Ideal candidates will have backgrounds including some of the following attributes:

- A track record as a physician leader who has created and led initiatives to improve patient care and outcomes while reducing cost.
- Experience with alternatives to fee for service compensation, particularly when tied to improved safety and quality practices.
- Previous or current involvement in the management of chronic illnesses through ACO's, medical homes, or other innovative approaches.
- A history as a transformational change agent and one that includes successfully changing a workforce.
- A fundamental understanding of healthcare reimbursement.
- Passion for policy development and translating policy development into practice.
- Experience impacting schools of medicine curriculum to include quality, safety and cost containment.

This is a strong opportunity to join one of the most highly regarded institutions in the world for influencing health care policy and reforming health care.
