

Assistant or Associate Professor
Department of Healthcare Policy and Research
Weill Cornell Medical College / NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital

We are seeking an Assistant or Associate Professor for a faculty position in the Department of Healthcare Policy and Research at Weill Cornell Medical College (formerly the Department of Public Health). The Department of Healthcare Policy and Research is a multi-disciplinary department dedicated to improving health care through research, education, service and innovation. There are numerous opportunities for collaboration within our expanding Department, within the Medical College, and with NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital.

The successful candidate will be a physician with strong quantitative training or will have a Ph.D. in economics, health services research, or a related field. Candidates should be knowledgeable about health policy, the healthcare delivery system, and/or health information technology.

Please send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and names of three professional references to Clarissa Crabtree at ccrabtre@med.cornell.edu.