General Academic Pediatrics Clinician-Scholar Faculty Positions

The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas invites applications for clinician-scholar faculty positions at the rank of Assistant or Associate, Professor level in the Division of General Pediatrics. We are especially interested in applicants with a strong research training background who are interested in conducting pediatric health services, public health, or clinical research. Clinician-scholar faculty will be provided with ample protected time for research and career development, along with outstanding opportunities for teaching and clinical care. The medical campus, which houses the medical school and its affiliated hospitals, offers all resources necessary for a productive academic career.

Children's Medical Center of Dallas is a state-of-the art, 406-bed, free-standing facility that provides comprehensive care to the children of Dallas and surrounding areas. General pediatricians have opportunities to attend on both the ambulatory and in-patient services, where they supervise and teach residents from the categorical pediatric residency training program and students from UTSW School of Medicine. Faculty in the Division of General Pediatrics have a strong tradition of teaching, research on underserved populations, mentoring trainees and young faculty, and success in obtaining research funding.

Candidates must be trained in and Board-eligible or Board-certified in Pediatrics. Clinician-scholar applicants must have had formal research training (either through the Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholars Program fellowship, an academic general pediatrics or adolescent medicine fellowship, or equivalent training), and must demonstrate dedication to academic excellence. Applications from minority groups and female candidates are encouraged. A letter of interest and curriculum vitae should be sent to:
